Can you guess where we are today? 🗺️

This beautifully preserved Georgian mansion in Fredericksburg was once home to Fielding and Betty Washington Lewis (George Washington's sister and her patriot husband). Its elegant design and rich history reflect Virginia's role in the fight for independence. 🇺🇸

VA250 - American Revolution 250 Comm...
Published by Buffer · August 30 · 🌐

August 30, 1781

A game-changing moment in the American Revolution. On this day, a fleet of 24 French warships carrying 3,500 troops, led by Admiral de Grasse, arrived near the Chesapeake Bay. Their arrival would prove critical.

Soon after, these French forces defeated the British at the Battle of the Virginia Capes, cutting off escape and resupply for Lord Cornwallis's army at Yorktown. This bold naval maneuver set the stage for the Siege of Yorktown—the final major battle of the war and a decisive step toward American independence.

A TWENTY-FOUR-SHIP, 3,500-MAN FRENCH NAVAL FORCE, LED BY ADMIRAL FRANÇOIS JOSEPH PAUL COMTE DE GRASSE, ARRIVES NEAR THE CHESAPEAKE BAY.
